All About the Operating System of Organizations

The operating system of an organization ensures the seamless functioning of management and work. Operating systems are a fixed part of our Organization Twins.

Over the past 22 years, Management Insights has developed and fully documented a methodology, an assessment tool, and an expert system for organizations of any kind to design, develop and transform their operating system in alignment with their strategy, the business model, and their particular management style. We believe that our methodology is unparalleled as it represents the latest science, it fits any organization, and it shortcuts traditional organizational development efforts.

To support operating system development initiatives, we have introduced the Organization Twin Cockpit, our proprietary, AI-based expert system for the design and the development of operating system based on our capability models, survey diagnostics, standards, statistics, benchmark data, and pattern recognition. The expert system helps users to process the data, view the twin, conduct simulations and scenarios, make design and development decisions, and customize reports.

Our organizational Operating Systems are fully documented:
